About Public Charter Schools

Public charter schools are independent, public, and tuition-free schools that are given the freedom to be more innovative while being held accountable for advancing student achievement. Since 1996, Delaware has provided parents the opportunity to choose the school that is best for their child(ren). Today, there are 23 charter schools in Delaware, serving over 18,000 students. This fall, Delaware will welcome its 24th charter school, the third in Sussex County. Four of the top ten high schools in Delaware as noted by U.S. News and World Report are charter schools. Separate studies by the Center on Reinventing Public Education and Mathematica Policy Research have found that charter school students are more likely to graduate from high school, go on to college, stay in college and have higher earnings in early adulthood.
